

Pam Ennis Thompson

Education

DBA, Advanced Accounting, Northcentral University, Prescott, Arizona, 2016

MST, Taxation, University of Texas Arlington, Arlington, Texas, 1998

BBA, Accounting, University of Texas Arlington, Arlington, Texas, 1998

Teaching

The University of North Texas at Dallas, Dallas TX September 2018—Present
Associate Professor, Program Coordinator

Texas A&M Commerce, Commerce, TX September 2017—August 2018
Lecturer

Texas Lutheran University, Seguin, TX August 2012 – August 2016
Assistant Professor

Northwood University, Cedar Hill, Texas September 2002 – August 2012
Assistant Professor

Professional Experience

Pam E. Thompson, CPA, Dallas, TX June 2007 – 2018 self-employed

Scholarly Activities

Publications

Thompson, P. & Scott, C. (2022). How Business Educators Can Provide Inclusive Academic Initiatives that Prepare Neurodiverse Students for the Workplace. M-PBEA Journal

Scott, C. & Thompson, P. (2021). Applying Evidence-Based Teaching Practices to Remote Learning During COVID-19. TBTEA Journal: Special Edition Research Journal – Taking Stock in Business, 21(1), 33-43.

Thompson, P. & Scott, C. (2020). The Value of Cooperative Learning for Business Students: Maximizing the Benefits of Group Work in an Accounting Class. M-PBEA Journal: Innovative Practices in the Business Education Classroom, 9(1), 25-31.
<https://img1.wsimg.com/blobby/go/5f55efe0-b6d9-44db-82ee-62bcc00ae5cc/downloads/MPBEA%20Journal%202020.pdf?ver=1601859736989>

Poster presentation – national conference

Scott, C. & Thompson, P. American Accounting Association - 2022 Joint Meeting of the Diversity and Teaching, Learning and Curriculum (TLC) Sections, October 28-29, 2022 - Research and Teaching Forum Presentation – Title of presentation: “Supporting Neurodiverse Business Students in Higher Education.”

American Accounting Association, TLC Section, 2020 Midyear Colloquium, November 2020

Thompson, P & Scott, C., The Value of Cooperative Learning for Accounting Students: Maximizing the Benefits of Group Work in an Accounting Class

Conferences Attended

AAA SPARK Virtual Meeting, June 2020

AAA CTLA Meeting, August 2020

AAA TLC Section, 2020 Midyear Colloquium, November 2020

AAA 2021 Spark, Meeting of the Regions, May 2021

AAA Conference on Teaching and Learning in Accounting, July 2021

AAA 2022 CGMA Teaching Symposium, January 2022

AAA 2022 Teaching, Learning and Curriculum, October 2022

Spring 2023 Accounting Education Research Forum, April 2023

Professional Memberships & Licensing

CPA licensure, Texas State Board of Public Accountancy

AICPA

NBEA

Other

Recipient of the Graduate School Outstanding Faculty award, Fall 2021.

Student evaluations are available upon request.

Professional references are available upon request.