Learning Disability & ADD/ADHD Referrals
For Evaluation/Assessment

You are receiving this referral list because your documentation was not approved by the Student Life Office/Disability Services at the University of North Texas Dallas or you have not yet provided documentation of a Learning Disability, ADD/ADHD or other condition, that may require formal testing to diagnose. Our office wishes to give you resources to update your documentation and possibly qualify for accommodations, but it is important to note the following:

• These evaluators are highly skilled and understand exactly what is required to secure accommodations at the university level. We strongly recommend that you only use evaluators on this list.
• This testing may be costly but rates do vary. To determine cost you must contact the evaluators yourself.
• On average, 4 to 6 weeks is required to set the appointment with the evaluator, complete the testing, send it to UNT Dallas and then meet with a counselor to officially implement any accommodations.
• It is your responsibility to bring your test results to the UNT Dallas Student Life Office/Disability Services.

What you can expect from the assessment process:

• This type of testing can take several hours to complete. You are likely to return for multiple sessions. Make sure you arrive on time, well rested, relaxed and ready to do you best. Remember to bring eyeglasses, hearing aides or any other item you regularly use while reading, writing and taking instructions. Take all medications as recommended by your medical doctor. Make any accommodation needs known to your evaluator beforehand.

What you need to know about assessment results:

• After testing is complete, it is possible that the evaluator may not be able to provide a diagnosis that qualifies as a disability under the ADA. If this is the case, you may not be approved for accommodations at UNT Dallas.

• UNT Dallas reserves the right to approve or not approve documentation in the pursuit of academic accommodations by students. If there is conflicting evidence, or the documentation is judged unclear or unacceptable you may be asked to provide additional documentation at your expense.

• Accommodations suggested by evaluators are greatly appreciated, and their recommendations are essential to the process. However, please understand that UNT Dallas Student Life Office/Disability Services (in cooperation with the UNT Office of Disability Accommodation) is the judge of what is an appropriate, reasonable accommodation at UNT Dallas. In other words, just because an evaluator suggests an accommodation in your report, it does not automatically become an official accommodation at UNT Dallas.
